

The 2022 Department of French Undergraduate Research Fellowship

The Department of French at Columbia University is pleased to announce the Undergraduate Research Fellowship. The fellowship is intended to support students majoring in the humanities or the social sciences pursuing research in France or a francophone country or region during the summer between their junior and senior years. Resources permit fellowships of up to $1500.

ELIGIBILITY

Applicants must be juniors enrolled in Columbia College or General Studies at Columbia University. They should plan to do research in preparation for writing a senior thesis. Their research can be in any discipline of the humanities and the social sciences and must relate to France or the francophone world. The project must require a research trip in a francophone region to be completed in summer 2022.

HOW TO APPLY

The application consists of a proposal and a letter of support.

The proposal must include the following: 1) the purpose of the project and its significance to French and Francophone studies; 2) the particular skills, experience, and expertise the applicant brings to the project; 3) a description of the research questions and methodology; 4) a description of the exact research sites the applicant plans to visit (libraries, archives, ethnographical fieldwork, etc.).

The proposal should also include a detailed budget of the expected expenses.

The complete proposal should be no longer than four double-spaced pages (plus one page for the budget).

Deadline for the proposal: Friday, March 25, 2022 by 4:00 pm

Students should also contact a potential senior thesis adviser who should send a brief letter of support for the project. The letter should be sent as an email to eliza.zingesser@columbia.edu. The deadline for the support letter is also March 25, 2022.

Questions concerning this research fellowship may be addressed to the Director of Undergraduate Studies in French, Eliza Zingesser (eliza.zingesser@columbia.edu).
